The Gentlemen's Journal gives this account of a very narrow escape from drowning. While L. Gilman, of the house of the L. L. & L. Co.'s mill in Pittston, Monday, in company with several other boys, Geo. Caldwell, a son of Mr. Chas. C. Caldwell of that village, a boy about 12 years of age, had a very narrow escape from drowning. While in the water the boy started from a log and fell into the river, striking his head and the back part of his head in such a manner as to render him insensible, and he must soon have drowned had not Mr. Gilman, who was standing on the boom, immediately plunged in and rescued the boy from his perilous position. The gentleman succeeded in floating him out of the water and found he was not breathing. By the use of the usual means he was restored to consciousness and is now improving.

The Kennebec Journal says: Mr. Wyer Hunt of Manchester, 12 years old, who has so many times been cited and figured in the Journal has been quite a sufferer. Dr. G. W. Martin, the active President of the Kennebec Association, on Sunday last, found Mr. Hunt on the Outlet of Cochnewagon pond, at the foot of the rapids below Spear's Mills, very actively engaged in catching fish. But just then it might be suspected of catching a little more than the fish at the time. Martin took his position behind a clump of bushes and watched the old fellow for about an hour, while he was engaged in fishing. Soon a heavy bite at the hook, the line run out, and a handsome black bass of eight pounds was landed on the shore. It was a handsome haul, and made Dr. Martin's mouth water, though he knew it was "forbidden fruit." Hurlbut took the bass from the hook—a splendid fellow that would weigh four pounds—and put it into a deep pocket on the inside of his coat. As he proceeded to cast his line again, Dr. Martin came out from his place of concealment, and called Hurlbut to account for his conduct. He replied "Chums for my coat." "What have you in your pocket here?" (feeling on the outside.) "Oh, nothing, but bait and fishing lines, &c." "But this is lively kind of work," said Mr. Martin, about to pull out the fish, when Hurlbut, thinking quick as lightning, pulled out a pocket-knife and cut the line, thus saving the fish. Martin was completely taken in and done for.

Addressograph.

The Journal says: On Sunday at Dry Mills Grey, a contraband got on board of George Morrow of Hartland, one of the parties who recently robbed the store of J. H. Day & Co., of Lewiston. Morrow was chased into a cove of woods and surrounded by the officers of the law, but all turned out to be false alarms. Morrow threw away the stolen goods with the exception of a dirk knife with which the possess to defend himself. He became ensnared and was secured safely. He was taken to the Lewiston lockup. He had been peddling the stolen goods in Grey and adjoining towns. The amount he had about $20 worth of plated ware and other goods which were received. Two policemen got into the woods after the contraband to capture him, and while they were gone some of Lewiston for complicity in the robbery. They have sold more than $1000 worth of dispose of some of the stolen goods, Monday, in Lewiston.

The first stone in the wheat pit of the pumping station at Lewiston, was laid Saturday. It is expected that twenty-five men will be employed. The pumping house, as planned, will be a brick building, 60x30, large enough to contain machinery for ten pumps. Only two pumps will be required till the demand for water requires more power. About 2300 yards of ledge have been removed.

Aroostook.

The Aroostook papers say there has been an influx of emigration to Aroostook the present season, chiefly to the townships in Dead Brook Plantation, where large tracts of land are being cleared. The soil is rich deep and very strongly impregnated with iron, presenting a deep reddish color. The crop in that section of the country are looking finely, and each farmer has more or less grain sown, which speaks well for their forethought.

Many farmers in Aroostook county will commence haying this week.

A party of two hundred assembled at their pleasant home, and everything passed off most pleasantly. A letter, E. S. Cary of East Machias, read an original poem. Handsome presents and a purse of money were received by the party, the members of the Grange and others, &c.

SOCIALISTS IN COUNCIL.

[From the N. Y. Herald.]

The meeting of the socialists of this city last evening to celebrate the anniversary of the French Revolution of 1848 was attended by nearly one thousand persons, a large number of whom were undoubtedly attracted by curiosity and had no sympathy whatever with the objects of the gathering. A majority of those present were, of course, foreigners—either Frenchmen or Germans. The meeting was orderly and the speeches, as a rule, were comparatively temperate in tone. There was, of course, a good deal about the rights of labor and the tyranny of capital and all that sort of thing, which is comparatively harmless and answers itself. The socialists have a perfect right to meet and discuss the labor question, the French Revolution of 1848 or any other revolution. Free speech is at the corner-stone of our institutions, and it cannot be denied to the socialists or to any other class of our people, provided they do not violate the law. Neither the resolutions adopted last evening nor the speeches that were made give a very clear idea of what the socialists really want. A decree of the "provisional government is quoted in regard to education. Surely there can be no ground of complaint in that respect here. Again, standing armies are denounced. Well, we have no standing army that as compared with those of Europe is worth the name. While our military resources are greater than almost any two of the first-class Powers in Europe we are almost untaxed in that respect. The union of Church and State is condemned. No union exists here, nor is it likely that one ever will exist. The socialists endeavor to draw a parallel between the condition of the workingmen in Paris in 1848 and of the workingmen in his country to-day. There is not a shadow of resemblance between the two cases. Land is free; labor is free, speech is free, education is free. The socialists will make little headway among the intelligent American workingmen. Their theories are in every respect un-American. They may do in Europe, where the whole fabric of society is different, but they can never obtain a foothold here.

THE SALVATION BY SILVER.

[From the Commercial June 24.]

What a condition of affairs would there have been in this country on the first of next January, had not the Representatives of the people in Congress remonetized silver and prohibited the further retirement of Greenbacks! In one month from date there would not have been for the people of this country, any currency under a five dollar bill, except about $30,000,000 of fractional silver coins!

The people little realize to-day from what a hell of torments, prepared for them by the Gold-Monger, they have been snatched by the bold stand taken in their behalf by such men as Bland, Ewing, Voorhees, Thurman and Judge Kelley!

[From the Boston Advertiser, June 24.]

HIRE A HALL!

This phrase is not used altogether in its slang sense. It is announced from Washington that all the efforts of the Treasury Department to dispose of the silver dollars which the law requires to be coined have failed, and that already there are more than seven millions in stock out of eight millions coined at the mint. Now seven million silver dollars weigh almost 550,000 pounds avoirdupois, or 275 tons, and we can easily believe that the vaults of the Treasury and the sub-treasuries are groaning under this weight of shining metal which lingers in nobody's pocket. That is chiefly why it is advisable for the Government to hire a hall in which to store its surplus stock. But the hall could be made useful for harangues on the silver question by advocates of the fathers' dollar. Topics in abundance could be suggested to the orators. First, the country is longing for an explanation of the failure of the prediction that legal-tender dollars would go off like hot cakes. Not much time must be wasted on that subject, however. The main question is how to relieve the Treasury of its unpopular load. The tactics of the temperance men might be introduced. Meetings could be organized and orators engaged, with talents of persuasion, to induce persons to "start a run on the silver Treasury. The patent-medicine motto, "Take me and I'll do you good," could be used with effect.

Something must certainly be done soon. There are more than five months to the meeting of Congress. The minimum coinage in that time is ten millions, the maximum twenty millions. By the first of December there will be, unless some way is found to force this undesirable coin upon an unwilling community, from fifteen to twenty-five million dollars of it on hand,—or, in round figures, from 600 to 1000 tons. The Treasury lately offered to send silver dollars free of transportation charges to all national banks that are depositories of public money, for exchange with greenbacks. This inducement only freed $15,000 into circulation. If the Secretary had power he might impose a fine upon all holders of legal-tender notes who refused to take 89¼ cents' worth of silver for them; but that power is lacking. Two remonetizers have got us into this scrape, and it is only fair they should show the way out.

SECRETARY SHERMAN INTERVIEWED.

A special to the N. Y. Tribune says: Secretary Sherman is still a little impatient that the Potter investigation does not make more rapid progress, and that he is not allowed to produce the testimony which he is sure will prove that he and his Republican associates did nothing during their visit to Louisiana which it was not proper for them to do in the interest of a fair count of the vote of that State.

Mr. Sherman said to-day that he feels much less interest now in the investigation than when it began. As long as it was to be used as a pretext for revolution it was a proceeding of some dignity and importance; but now, as its purpose seems confined, so far as Louisiana is concerned, to discovering whether Anderson swore falsely in his protest filed with the Returning Board, or swears falsely now, or whether the name cast of the electors of Louisiana was signed without his authority to an unnecessary and invalid slip pleasantest return or not, the inquiry is not important enough to pay its cost.

"However," he continued, "the committee is ready to examine whether in truth and in fact the election in Ross and West Feliciana was 'free and fair;' whether the protest of Anderson was forged or genuine; and whether it is false or true whether his story that he told me about his forged protest is true or not, and when the committee is also ready to inquire who manufactured the pretended Sherman letter, [then I will assist the committee in proving the nature, character and extent of the fraud, violence and intimidation that controlled the election. I will prove that the protest was sworn to and subscribed by Anderson, and that every word of it is true; that the pretended notice to me of a have whether Anderson forged them as he had the signature of Wahher to the Wahher agreement, or whether he was duped by forgeries with a pretended letter by me, is my impression, until Mrs. Jenks testified, was that he manufactured the letter himself. If he did not, why had he not mentioned it in his search for an effect? Then there are some indications that he believed there was a letter from me or from Stoughton and myself; and some such idea or pretence might have been kept out to hide keep the rascal true to the ruse. This, however, is in dispute, and I hope the committee will find out the exact truth."

Mr. Sherman spoke of some other matters, and the said: "As to the criticisms of my conduct in not denying more strongly that I wrote the pretended letter, I only desire to say that I denied it as strongly as any honest man could deny such an allegation; for no honest man could say, and suddenly as I was, and without knowledge of the testimony of Anderson, and to the face of assertions repeatedly made that the only real letter in the matter—the only copy would be produced, that it was impossible that he had written such a letter. My answer was right and true that I had no recollection of writing such a letter, and that I believed I never did. Now the committee is showing that I did not write the letter, and the time, place and circumstances are heralded. It is shown that I did not in fact write the letter, and knew nothing of it."

So tender hearts of our genial neighbor bleeds for our suffering National Banks! Can't something be done for them?—Commercial.

Well, that is not a very powerful or concise forbidder, but we did not have you in mind to say.

The Democratic Machias Union does not agree with the "organ" in its city on finance. The Union says

> Nearly every plank in the Greenback (financial) platform leads to increased taxation and additional burdens for the laboring man as a result.
> Paper money. The results have always proved disastrous. The United States, Russia and France and other nations have tried the experiment and have in every instance suffered by it.
> The old Jeffersonian, Jacksonian money, Gold and Silver, is the kind the Democratic will stand by, because such money stands by the people.

To my Patrons and Friends in Bangor and vicinity—Greeting.

For many years I have used VULCANITE RUBBER, and I feel no hesitation in saying that there is necessary in this plate and many other teeth now supplied in the old way, have all been replaced in this way, fully satisfied seventy-five per cent. of the time. For the remainder I have used a new patent—the "CELLULOID." This plate is entirely free from any metallic substance in the mouth. My patients are delighted with it, and I myself have no fear of failure. Those who contemplate the use of RUBBER can come and have a new set of teeth made upon "Celluloid," for a small sum.

All dental work that comes to me I will do in the best possible manner, and at the lowest terms.

BATES COLLEGE.

Memorial Meeting.

LEWISTON, June 26. A memorial meeting of Bates College Corporation was held at Hartlorn Hall at 9 A. M. President Chaney submitted his report. The President says that $1,758 has been expended the past year on the college campus. In meeting Mr. Bates' last gift the President recommends "That a committee of three be appointed by the corporation which shall have full power and authority for the corporation, to make such inquiries and examinations as they may deem reasonable and take such action in behalf of the corporation as they may consider necessary in relation to the guaranty subscription and bequest to the college of the late Benjamin E. Bates." The necrology for the year is as follows: Martin Atwell Wing, class of '74, Alanson Bean Merrill and Ezekiel Henry Rosse, of '77. All these young men had the Christian ministry in view. The assets of the college are put at $400,697 including Mr. Bates' subscription; liabilities, $21,945; assets above liabilities $414,752. Over $2000 in bullions have been given. Three hundred and nineteen volumes have been added to the college library the past year. The ladies' school has had a very prosperous year.

THE UNIVERSALIST CONVENTION.

Wednesday's Proceedings.

LEWISTON, June 26. The Universalist convention opened with a praise meeting at five o'clock. At eight the conference meeting was held; at nine the business session opened. A change was made in the programme to allow the Woman's Centennial Meeting to take the place of some other exercises. Rev. Mr. Howe of Portland, offered a resolution of Christian sympathy and fellowship with the Congregational Conference now in session. This caused quite a ripple in the Convention. It was opposed by Father Thompson, Mr. Whitney of Augusta, Rev. Mr. Purinton, and followed by Rev. Messrs. Seiss, Goodenough and Newman. The resolve was carried and Messrs. Howe of Portland, Seiss of Norway and Whitman of Mechanic Falls, were appointed to bear the resolution of sympathy. At 10.30 o'clock the Centennial Session was preached by Rev. W. H. French of Turner, from 1. Sam. 7:12.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

THE POTTER INVESTIGATION.

Mrs. Jenks Again on the Stand.

WASHINGTON, June 26. The Potter Committee met at 11.25. Mrs. Agnes Jenks was asked by Potter if she could now furnish letters required by the committee. She replied that the letters had not yet arrived. Mr. Potter said he still had letters from Kellogg which she had not yet laid before the committee. She replied, "I may have."

Q.—Will you produce them?

A.—I must decline to do so without permission of Kellogg.

At this point Cox announced that Kellogg had given Scaibarger authority to inform the committee that he was desirous of having any and all correspondence between himself and Mrs. Jenks laid before the committee. Whereupon Mrs. Jenks said that the letters were at her home in New Orleans and she would produce them as soon as possible.

"The Sherman Letter" Again.

In reply to a question regarding the so-called Sherman letter, witness said she destroyed the letter to another party and she wished the Committee to distinctly understand that she herself did not write the letter.

Q.—Who was the person to whom you dictated the letter?

A.—I must decline to tell. It would not be honorable. It was a person prominent in Louisiana politics. I saw him probably six months ago. He may be dead now for what I know.

Q.—What was his politics?

A.—He was a king of Republican.

She testified that the first draft of the letter was not satisfactory to her mate, but the second draft suited her better.

She did not know either of the drafts of the document to Weber and left him to infer it was genuine.

Q.—Did you know your husband the first draft?

A.—No sir, I never mentioned it except in this room.

Witness asked Mayfield with an air of dignity if there were any more lame, blind, or deaf, who are expected as witnesses in her case, if so, he had better go out upon the highway and bring them in.

Mr. McMahon said "You know Mrs. Jenks there are none so blind as those that will not see."

A. C. Maley, Called.

Notice was then given by McMahon that there were two letters in the House post-office addressed to Mrs. Jenks and she was excused to peruse them, and A. C. Maley testified he had several conversations in January and February last with Mrs. Jenks in the parlor on Ninth street regarding the Sherman letter.

During the conversation it transpired that she was here in behalf of Packard in his race for the Collectorship, and she had approached Sherman about the matter. She knew of the whereabouts of the Sherman letter, and she had been offered $2000 for it. Witness advised her to sell it, as she was worth at least $6000 to Secretary Sherman, and witness proposed that she should make him her agent to place the letter where it would do the most good. Mrs. Jenks gave witness to understand that she would visit Louisiana and bring the letter with her on her return. She had read a letter to witness during their conversation purporting to be from her husband, which referred to the Sherman letter. The letter was very affectionate and contained much poetry, and he being very fond of poetry, the reading was greatly enjoyed by him.

On cross-examination by Cox, witness said that his acquaintance with Mrs. Jenks commenced in the Grant days where they were boarding house acquaintance. As near as he could remember the quotation referring to the Sherman letter read from the letter purporting to be from her husband, was about as follows: "You have committed the blunder of permitting these documents to leave your own hands."

Owing to the deafness of witness, Cox asked if he did not experience great difficulty hearing Mrs. Jenks in conversation. He replied, "Oh none in the world. She has a very low voice and I can always understand a lady better than a gentleman. (Laughter.) During the cross-examination of Maley Mrs. Jenks occupied a chair in the corner of the room in the rear of witness and was seemingly very much amused by the proceedings.

Q.—(By Cox.) Did Mrs. Jenks ever say she had actual possession of the Sherman letter?

A.—Yes sir, she undoubtedly did and that it was in some safe in New Orleans subject to her command.

Q.—Are you willing to testify that Mrs. Jenks had made any attempt to sell that letter?

A.—No sir. Mrs. Jenks told me she had been offered $2000 for the letter and I advised her to appoint me her agent with a view to settle it; that I thought it worth at least $6000.

At the conclusion of Mr. Maley's examination at 12:45 the Committee took a recess till 2 o'clock. Mr. Potter announced that he desired a brief executive session and the doors were immediately closed.

WASHINGTON.
